Halo Earth

Planet Earth, a blue marble suspended in space, our home, a unique and rare place in the vastness of the universe.

Halo Earth aims to reproduce the experience known as the “Overview Effect”, a cognitive change in awareness caused by observing the Earth during a space flight or from the lunar surface: the sight of our beautiful blue-green planet, alone in the darkness of the void, enveloped in a subtle atmosphere, triggers a great emotional response in astronauts who report overwhelming emotions of awe and feelings of identification with humanity and the planet that harbors them.

Soft shades of color are calibrated to recall natural elements such as water - air - earth, elements in balance for millennia, which represent the greatest wealth available to humanity.

An increased height and a new generation fixed optical body allow you to view the light projection in large dimensions without compromising shape and concept.
